Ravi's Newsletter

Name: _____ Date: _____

PRE-LESSON WARM-UP · DO THIS BEFORE YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Before the Newsletter Goes Out

Ravi helps put together his neighborhood's monthly newsletter. Every piece in it is written for a different reason. Before you sort them, warm up your reading brain.

1 Match each word to its meaning. Draw a line, or write the matching letter next to each word.

___ author's purpose	A. Specific facts or details that support a point.
___ inform	B. The reason a writer chose to write a piece — usually to inform, persuade, or entertain.
___ persuade	C. The perspective a writer or speaker sees a topic from.
___ entertain	D. To convince someone to think or act a certain way.
___ point of view	E. To give facts or explain something clearly.
___ evidence	F. To amuse or interest the reader, often through humor or story.

2 Read this sentence: “Recycling saves our planet — start today!” Is this meant to inform, persuade, or entertain? Explain your answer.

3 Think of something you've read — an ad, a joke, a news article. What was its purpose? Write 1–2 sentences.

POST-LESSON CHALLENGE · DO THIS AFTER YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

After Sorting the Sections

Great work on today's lesson! Now show off what you learned about identifying an author's purpose.

1 List the four newsletter pieces from the lesson and the purpose (inform, persuade, or entertain) of each one.

2 Explain in 2–3 sentences why the bakery spotlight piece blends TWO purposes at once.

3 Why does knowing an author's purpose help you read more carefully? Explain your thinking in 2–3 sentences.

★ Challenge: Write THREE short pieces of your own about the same topic — one to inform, one to persuade, and one to entertain.

Looking Ahead: Next week we put TWO different sources together into one bigger idea — that's called synthesizing! Bring this sheet back to your next lesson.
